Reflections:	During my teaching experience at Will-Moore, I received a lot of feedback and suggestion about my teaching lessons. I used the feedback I received to help better myself as a teacher and give the students the best education possible. I also used multiple assessments in my lessons and taught the students to the best of my ability.

Reflections:	When teaching my lessons, I made sure to use my teacher voice and project my voice across the classroom. I also asked the students questions throughout the lessons to make sure that they understood the content.
